

BRAZIL PUBLIC

LIBRARY

INTERNET

POLICY

Adopted by the Brazil Public Library Board of the 25th day of May, 2016

DISCLAIMER

The Internet is a global electronic network and tool for life-long learning. In a free and democratic society, access to information is a fundamental right of citizenship.

The Internet contains many valuable resources but there is no federal, state or local control of its users or content. The Internet and its available resources may contain items that are illegal, defamatory, inaccurate or potentially offensive to some people. The Library cannot censor access to materials nor protect users from offensive information. It is technically impossible to prevent access to all objectionable resources.

As with other materials, parents and guardians of minor children (not the Library nor its staff), are responsible for supervising their children's use of Internet resources.

The library staff cannot control the availability of information links, which often change rapidly and unpredictably. Not all sources on the internet provide accurate, complete or current information. Users need to use good judgment in questioning the validity of information.

The Brazil Public Library strongly advises caution when providing personal information over the Internet and is not responsible for any errors or losses resulting in the patron doing so.

While the library's policy prohibits access to inappropriate materials, users have the ability to access offensive information and visual materials. Patrons are hereby notified that they are responsible for the access points they reach.

NOT FOLLOWING THE COMPUTER LAB RULES MAY RESULT IN LOSS OF COMPUTER LAB PRIVILEGES.
